Over 20 years in the industry is just one of the reasons why organisers, both large and small keep coming back to us.

MORE

Hi Karl, give us a quick overview of your services

At Media Hut, we support exhibitions and events all over the UK with all types of merchandise, but with a particular focus on sustainability

Tell us a bit about your role.

I work closely with exhibition organisers to support them with merchandise requirements both for themselves and their exhibitors

Why are you such a good option for event planners to consider?

As accredited members of ESSA, clients know that they are dealing with industry experts who have been independently vetted and audited by industry specific accreditation experts.

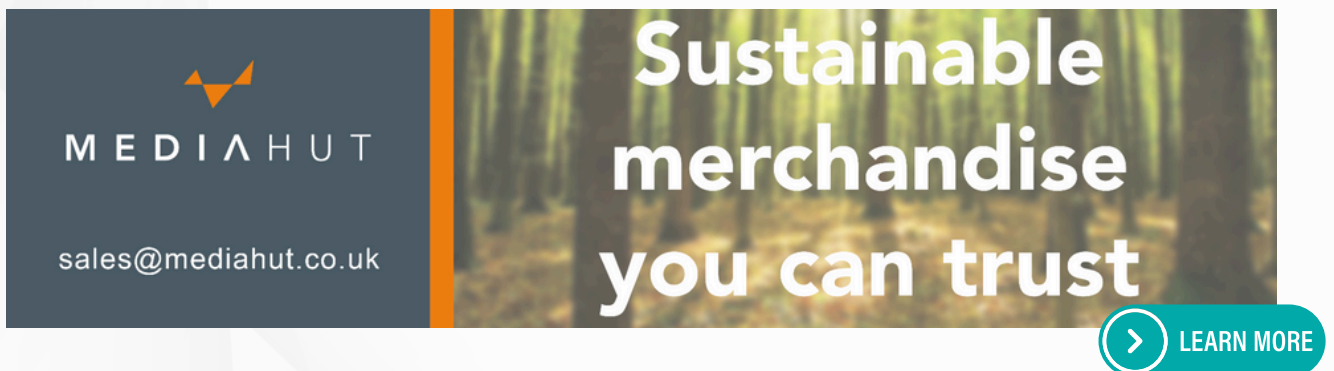

Over 20 years in the industry is just one of the reasons why organisers, both large and small keep coming back to us. As an independent company, we have no particular allegiance to any individual manufacturer, and can therefore source pretty much anything you can think of!

Everything from Lanyards and show bags through to high-end speaker gifts, we can support all of your merchandise requirements, whatever they may be!

What's new with you guys?

Media Hut, the specialist provider of promotional merchandise for events and exhibitions, is proud to announce that it has recently become the ONLY promotional merchandise company to have achieved the highly prestigious and industry-specific ESSA Accreditation for Sustainability, in addition to our existing H&S accreditation.

Working closely with ESSA's accreditation scheme, we have undergone a rigorous and thorough examination of our policies and procedures to enable customers to order from us with confidence.

Whilst WE know that sustainability is a huge part of our business, it is nice to have independent accreditation in place from the industry trade association itself.
