Hi Kelly, give us a quick overview of Farm Adventure and what activities you offer for clients

What is Farm Adventure you might say, well, its where farming meets hot tubs, plus the bucket list experience such as driving and/or racing a John Deere tractor and fancy dress!

Sounds a little crazy, but Farm Adventure is a great opportunity to get outside with your friends, family or work colleagues to try something new whilst laughing out loud and creating fantastic memories!

Tell us a bit about your role

My role at Farm Adventure is varied to say the least....from tapping away at my laptop keyboard answering enquiries and liaising with groups about their forthcoming visit and arranging logistics for brewery tours, naked butlers and 3 course meals – its hard to compute where the mind goes!

When not in the office with the BEST view over the stunning country hills, I am either out in the fields with a group – generally encouraging some form of sabotage, I'll be flipping burgers on the BBQ and pouring a G&T behind the Baaar!

Why are you such a good option for event planners to consider?

Farm Adventure is unique however, experienced in what we do! Into the 14th year of running farm styled activities, we understand the confusion of how the day / weekend may pan out, but we are here to help reassure you with clear schedules and processes to ensure activities are kept high octane but without exhausting the group!

We are a team of fun and enthusiastic individuals keen to make your visit unforgettable! We understand the pressures of organising large groups and we are here to help by offering clear information, efficient communication and ensuring the event goes as smoothly as possible.

What's new with you guys?

Farm Adventure has been having a heck of a lot of fun for almost 14 years now, giving people a chance to really have a go at farming. From racing tractors to herding pigs, wanging wellies and more. So it's now time to bring people into our farming world a little bit more, with new opportunities.

LEARN MORE

From opening their eyes to the world of real sustainability and how farming really contributes to our future and how to help, plus getting involved with Farm Education, giving young people the opportunity to learn and grow their own career in farming through sponsorship.

Standing still in any business is never a good idea. We are always looking for new events to bring to our clients, and also updating some of our tried and tested events with new equipment.

ANDY O'CALLAGHAN
Managing Director

Hi Andy, give us a quick overview of Teambuilding Solutions and what you can offer event organisers

At Teambuilding Solutions we provide high quality team building and development sessions to clients across the UK.

Tell us a bit about your role

Managing Director sounds like a grand title for what I actually do! As a small company, we tend to all do multiple roles. As well as overseeing the management and direction of the company, I'm also out delivering our events - which also includes loading the vans!

Why are you such a good option for event planners to consider?

As a small company, we believe that nothing falls through the cracks as you are not passed from sales to operations to freelance event managers.

We also provide a level of expertise in all aspects of event planning - from venue finding to selecting the best activities for the group in question. We listen to client briefs and attempt to sell the appropriate products.

Our team has probably been to the majority of hotel venues with decent grounds across the UK, so we are talking from experience when we suggest a venue or activity for a particular venue.

What's new with you guys?

Standing still in any business is never a good idea. We are always looking for new events to bring to our clients, and also updating some of our tried and tested events with new equipment.

This year, we have launched two brand new events - both inspired by television shows! The Sabatours has a member of the team be randomly selected to try to undermine the efforts of the team.

Will the team members be able to work out who's trying to scupper their attempts at success? Antiques Auction sees teams having to bid for a couple of items from our auction catalogue.

Can the teams sniff out the real deals to maximise their profits, or will they fall for a real clanger?! In addition to these, we have also introduced new games within our ever popular Krypton Maze activity to keep it fresh and relevant!

> LEARN MORE

Tell us a bit about your role

I have now been with Eventurous for 10 years following a variety of roles within the events and hospitality industry and love the culture, energy and passion of the team. My focus is commercial strategy, building partnerships and managing key clients in addition to growing and developing the internal team.

We strive to innovate and exceed client expectations with memorable experiences that bring value to their business.

Alongside my full-time role as Sales Director, I have recently joined the board of Directors at beam and will be focused on driving positive change for all things ESG.

Why are you such a good option for event planners to consider?

The team at Eventurous LOVE events and inspire clients with a passionate approach to delivering exceptional experiences with a dedication to people and planet.

Having a fully inhouse service saves time and gives added value to help achieve budget.

Being service focused has seen us recognised with several client and peer voted awards recently including MIA Supplier of Year, Best Event Management Company from The PA Show and Excellence in Hospitality & Events from the Greater Birmingham Chamber of Commerce in addition to several Sustainability and Green Initiative focused accolades giving client confidence we are the right partner.

What's new with you guys?

We are constantly talking with clients about their aims and challenges which allows us to tailor the service and products to ensure meets their event needs.

Team Building has evolved to become a more comprehensive conference enhancement service with organisations needing content that is engaging, inclusive and gives ROI.

In 2024, 70% of all team activities were delivered inside the host venue meeting space and we have created a range of bespoke formats that work within the conference agenda. Trending formats are CSR and wellbeing focused activities, interactive evening entertainment and formats that can be tailored to incorporate client themes and message.
